MISS EDNA GRANDIN, Mr. Lewis, Robert Hyatt Milton, Chas. Montgomery, Edwin Kerr and Richard Glanston formed the company of players which produced a thrilling tale of the Canadian woods at the Hippodrome last night. Special scenery, the work of Mr. Montgomery, gave the proper color to the piece, and was strikingly realistic. The settings are entirely new—there are three—the first a Canadian forest in which the opening chapter of the story is enacted. The second the interior of a typical North woods log house, and the third another outdoor scene, but entirely different from the first. When the curtain arose on the last act the audience loudly applauded this splendid effect. The interpretation of the story, although at popular prices, was on a par with that produced here some time ago by a traveling company at a dollar-and-a-half. The play will be repeated tonight and tomorrow, matinee and night.

There is a change of bill scheduled for the Colonial tonight. The Lord & Vernon company has made a hit with patrons of musical comedy and capacity business has been the rule so far this week.

Edwin Kerr, who has become quite a favorite with Hippodrome regulars, is an actor of the old school, having started his career nearly 40 years ago. His versatility has led him through comic opera, minstrelsy and the drama. He has a preference, which he says is "character parts; parts that give one a chance to submerge one's individuality in the demand of the role."

Mr. Kerr says, of his early career, that he deserted business for art by diverting the money intended for a course in a commercial school, to organize "Kerr's Operatic Minstrels." We rehearsed for two weeks and when we were ready to go on the road my bank roll looked like a book-marginal. There was one real performer in the company—the rest were waiters, peddlers, motormen and so on. Perkins was his name. Aside from directing rehearsals, sitting on the end, and singing seven songs he played the snare drum in the band. He had an unquenchable thirst. On the trip to Butte, Mont., he met a group of traveling men, exchanged stories for drinks, and when the band assembled in front of the opera house, he was handed his drum and signalled to "roll off," which he did—in the gutter. We put him on his feet, and all went well till the parade reached a hill, and Perkins attracted by the red lights of a saloon decided to keep on the level, and started the other way playing his best. The crowd followed him. He tried to buy a bottle of beer in a millinery store and landed in the lock-up. He told the Judge the next morning that the cause of his trouble was a delusion and a snare (drum). The Judge fined him ten dollars for the drunk and twenty days for the joke. There was no show. Then I telegraphed:

"Dear father; sell a cow and wire the amount. Son."
"Fool son. Cow is busy with a wiser calf. Get a lantern and stick to the straight and narrow path, even if the ties are far apart. Father."

Views from Somme, the center of the European war, are on the screen at the Nelson today in addition to a wild animal picture and the feature film, "The Higher Destiny."

Lionel Barrymore is starred in the Metro feature, "The Quittier," which is showing at the Princess today.

An intense dramatic story is told in the picture, "His Brother's Wife," at the Grand today. Ethel Clayton and Carlyne Blackwell, two of the World's Film Corporation's leading emotional actresses are leading the cast.

JUDGE KNIGHT'S WIDOW DIES. CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 22.—A telegram received here announced the death at Rochester, Minn., of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Knight, of Charleston, widow of Judge Edward B. Knight, one of the most eminent lawyers of West Virginia. She was a native of Claremont, N. H., and was 58 years old. The body will be brought to Charleston.

Marriage License. James V. Shaw, 27, Masontown, Pa., and Pearl Haddix, 22, Fairmont.

Don't Be Slovenly. Don't be slovenly in your dress. This applies to ladies only, as men are not supposed to wear dresses.

EDWIN KERR

GO GET 'EM.

Don't be a pessimist. Be optimistic—"a go get 'em fellow."

Let the world know that you do not depend on others to get business, but on your own powers alone; let them know you have something they will eventually want, and let them know you individually.

Get ahead. Go to 'em.

Don't wait till they come to you. Waiting is a procedure of lost time; lost time is slipping of opportunities; opportunities are scarce, they crop up, they don't stay with us, they come and go; when they don't come you are letting them go.

Be on the job and create opportunities, be a live wire, be an optimist, not a pessimist; creative powers are exceptionally valuable; be a creator of business—yours and the other fellows' as well.

Be an advertiser.

One with optimistic views instills a fever of rushing business into those who decay hard times, and you will learn when others want to get some of the spasmodic business during the busy times, you have built a stone wall around your business they cannot get to; you will then be a creator and an optimist.—Selected.

MAJOR BURKE HERE;
CODY IS COMINGWell Known World Traveler
Is Full of Prepared ness Talk

Major John M. Burke, "United States," a world-traveled cosmopolite, has arrived. As an illustration of the truism that coming events cast their shadows before, in his qualifying of the announcement that Col. Cody, "Buffalo Bill" (himself), was again in the saddle, and after several years' absence would be here soon, questioned as to the fact, the Major said: "Yes, Buffalo Bill, (now General) Cody of the Wyoming National Guard, where lately he has been assisting General Slinney to prepare the range rider element in 'Preparedness' is coming allied with the newly constructed Miller Brothers-Arlington Wild West and a government-endorsed military contingent, real furloughed United States soldiers from the Rio Grande, is the one sure bet that doubting Thomases must fight shy of."

The old scout has allied himself with a triple-decked merging of his mid-time Wild West atmosphere with the last generation of frontiersmen, sons of the Indian and pioneer of the plains, and rough riders of Oklahoma's early days, led by Colonel Joe Miller, among the last of the range riders of the Southwest. Colonel Cody's adventures in the fifties and his younger associates' later experiences, cover the eras that might be called the birth of the trans-Missouri—the blooming of the Central and the ripening of the great Western America.

To add to the lesson of the physical benefits of outdoor and camp life, a contingent of furloughed United States soldiers, cavalry and artillery to show that "Preparedness" for the tented field is as necessary an adjunct in these days of luxury as it was in the settling and developing of this continent into the present marvelously prosperous and envied Land of Plenty.

The Major is full of preparedness, and was an early advocate for the developing of our first lines of East and West defense—a great double navy—and as a reserve line for National physical culture of the masses, a continental army—fully prepared, this nation would be the world's Dove Cote; money spent would be a home circulation; it would be a Mecca for investment of foreign capital; an economy in doctors' bills; a saving in criminal expenses and to the covetous would be a warning, and to our people a shield of security.

"The sudden idiosyncrasy that has almost wrecked civilization, and wipes out Europe's two thousand years of progress, shows the fallacy of too much pacific passiveness; to be on guard is to be respected in these days of hysteria and isms—so changeable that if the Man from Galilee's commissary magic at the loaves, wine and fish picnic occurred today, he would likely be arrested and condemned as a lawless moonshiner. So, wake up, America. Stop! Look! Listen! and Prepare."

Evening Chat

"Fairmont may be congratulated upon the conditions which exist with reference to possible fire hazards," says State Fire Marshal John S. Horan, while here recently. A weeks inspection has revealed a number of situations which, if not corrected might cause a conflagration. Taking the city as a whole it is far above the average. This is due to the activities of your Fire Chief O. J. Watkins, and his efficient department; also the interest your citizens have taken in the subject. Too much interest in your Fire Department cannot be taken when it is realized they hold in their care not only your property but the lives of your loved ones as well.

"Put out the fire before it starts" is a very good motto to adopt. By removing as far as possible, conditions which may cause fires, you eliminate fires themselves. Two things are necessary in the reduction of the fire loss. Eliminate fire hazards where possible and increase the efficiency of your fire fighting apparatus. Fire losses are not borne by insurance companies but by policy holders themselves.

An insurance company is not a charitable institution, but a business organization. In other words it can readily be seen that they must collect sufficient sums to meet all losses pay necessary expenses and return a fair margin of profit upon the funds invested in order to continue in existence. Reduction in the annual fire loss and correction of existing fire hazards, means a reduction of fire insurance premiums. And inside from the economic view is the question of the safety and preservation of lives.

The following "DON'TS" may well be considered and heeded:

Don't permit children to play with matches.

Don't throw away lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes.

Don't use gasoline, naphtha or benzine in the home. (one pint of such inflammable liquid makes 200 feet of explosive vapor.)

Don't block the fire escapes, you may need yourself your moment.

Don't put hot ashes in wooden boxes or barrels.

Don't have lace curtains or draperies near open lights.

Don't permit parlor matches to be kept on the premises except in a closed metal box. "Safety are safest."

Don't forget to regulate all fire before leaving premises or retiring for night.

Don't forget "Safety First."

Indoor Life Makes Fat

Try Oil of Kerein to Keep Weight Down or to Reduce Superfluous Fat.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against stoutness, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any persons who are satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to Martin's Drug Store, 325 Main street and get a box of oil of kerein capsules, and take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the old energy; foot-steps become lighter and the skin less flabby in appearance as the fat disappears.

Oil of kerein is inexpensive, cannot injure, and helps the digestion. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.

To Keep Inkwell Clean. The ink should be poured out of the wells once a week and the wells washed in hot water.

HAND work commands respect in every field of endeavor—hand work is careful, painstaking, precise work—hand work is used more largely in our made to measure clothes than in any clothes you can buy.

Hand tailoring makes style permanent and enduring—it isn't nearly as fast nor as cheap as machine work, but it's so much better that there's really no comparison between the two.

NELSON —THEATER— TOMORROW SATURDAY

THE WANDERING HORDE

A three-reel photoplay by James Oliver Curwood. Light in texture, moves at good speed and the subject matter is of interest. It is given a satisfactory performance by a cast in which Evert Overton is the central figure. Denton Dale, Adele Kelly and Edward Elkins are prominently cast.
